Rule 18-28

EARLY WITHDRAWAL PENALTIES

Each industrial bank permitted to issue certificates of deposit (excluding a passbook account with a notice of withdrawal requirement less than 90 days), contracts, or agreements under any descriptive name and receive savings deposits, (hereinafter referred to as "certificate accounts" or "certificate"), which may bear such interest as their terms provide, shall comply with the appropriate early withdrawal penalties and impose them on account holders.

This rule shall apply to all certificates written on or after January 1, 1982, but not to certificates written prior to January 1,1982, and maturing before or on or after January 1, 1982, except as otherwise provided.

I. The following minimum early withdrawal penalties apply only to certificates entered into, renewed, or extended between January 1, 1982, and September 30, 1983, and that have not been renewed or extended on or after October 1, 1983:

a. If the certificate is for less than 90 days, the account holder shall pay a penalty of at least all interest that could have been earned on the amount withdrawn, if the depositor held the deposit until maturity. The account holder can therefore lose part of the principal deposit.

b. If the certificate is for 90 days to one year, the account holder shall pay a penalty of at least 90 days interest, whether earned or not, on the amount withdrawn. If the certificate has remained on deposit for less than 90 days, the account holder can therefore lose part of the principal deposit.

c. If the certificate is for more than one year, the account holder shall pay a penalty of at least 180 days interest whether earned or not, on the amount withdrawn. If the certificate has remained on deposit for less than 180 days, the account holder can therefore lose part of the principal deposit.

II. The following minimum early withdrawal penalties shall apply to certificates entered into, renewed or extended on or after October 1, 1983:

a. Where a certificate or an account with an original maturity or required notice period of seven to 31 days, or any portion thereof, is paid before maturity, a depositor shall forfeit an amount equal to the greater of (i) all interest earned on the amount withdrawn from the most recent of the date of deposit, date of maturity, or date on which notice was given, or (ii) all interest that could have been earned on the amount withdrawn during a period equal to one-half the maturity period or the required notice period.

b. Where a certificate with an original maturity or required notice period of 90 days to one year, or any portion thereof, is paid before maturity, a depositor shall forfeit an amount at least equal to one month's interest earned, or that could have been earned, on the amount withdrawn at the nominal (simple) interest rate being paid on the deposit, regardless of the length of time the funds withdrawn have remained on deposit.

c. Where a certificate with an original maturity or required notice period of more than one year, or any portion thereof, is paid before maturity, the depositor shall forfeit an amount at least equal to three month's interest earned, or that could have been earned, on the amount withdrawn at the nominal (simple) interest rate being paid on the deposit, regardless of the length of time the funds withdrawn have remained on deposit.

III. Notwithstanding paragraph I (b), where a certificate of $2,500 to less than $100,000, with an original maturity of 91 days, that has been issued, renewed or extended before October 1, 1983, but not renewed or extended on or after that date, is paid before maturity, a depositor shall forfeit an amount equal to at least all interest earned on the amount withdrawn.

In the event an early withdrawal penalty is required to be imposed under this regulation and the same certificate remains on deposit with the industrial bank, the same certificate shall earn interest at the applicable rate governing a passbook account with a notice of withdrawal requirement less than 90 days. This does not prevent the renegotiation of the certificate or establishment of another certificate account at prevailing interest rate.

Industrial banks may not impose early withdrawal penalties following the death or adjudication of incompetence of any account holder.

Also, for accounts that qualify as custodial IRA or custodial Keogh accounts, an industrial bank need not impose penalties where an early withdrawal is made and an account holder has attained age 59 1/2 or is disabled.
